PIONEER TRAILS

Civilizations of all countries, French, Spanish, pioneer Anglo-American, Indian, and Mexican, passed through the North Texas area. They came in search of gold, to establish missions, to punish the Indians, to make trade treaties, and to seek sites for homes.

Those trails are faint today, but travelers of a later date established themselves because, earlier, the first footprints were made by the Conquistadors.

ADMINISTRATION

INDIAN TRAILS

The early occupants of this section were semi-nomadic Indians, roving over a network of rather well-defined trails which led them to good buffalo hunting, fresh water, and salt springs. The Wichitas, a Caddoan tribe, had peculiarly constructed homes, a cone-like dwelling covered with a thatch of grass.

In his efforts to rid Northwest Texas of dangerous Indians, Gen. R. S. Mackenzie in the 1870's marked what is known as the Mackenzie Trail. Earlier a Comanche trail, it was later used by pack trains and settlers in the development of the new country.

COMMERCIAL TRAILS

The development of a country depends on its commerce; so naturally trading lines were established very early throughout Texas, bringing merchandise and new settlers, and comforts to the settlements.

Every mode of travel was used, from the Mexican burro to the large ox-drawn freighter and the covered wagon. Several early Wichita Falls settlers established freight lines with Dallas, Fort Worth, and Gainesville in the 1870's and '80's, and many people came to this section with the trade caravans in covered wagons and on horseback before the arrival of the railroad.

Bennett with his saxaphone, Cohen with his songs, and Cocanower with his art might well be contrasted with Haley for his determination in studies. Burgess, Gray, and Broeker are known for individuality, while Cox, Crowell, Carr are never without energy. Franks, Holly, and Davis are as jolly as others would want their companions, and Hanks, Holton, and Hansard bring dignity to the January Class.

Patti is our January president—witty, wise, and pretty. Mathis sings those bluesy songs the way we like to hear them. McClendon, James, and Kohutek are exceedingly versatile; Lewis, Nabors, Kelm, and Morris are pleasant and brilliant at anything. Even with "Toughy," the most popular boy, Yeakley, the Latin Prof., and Rhoads, the beauty, such supporters as Hammock, Robinson, and Milburn must be proudly proclaimed. Perry, Posey, Price, and Smith add variety of personality to the class. Standring and Woods will succeed because they want to. Warren, Topper, and Thompson already rate first in their cheerfulness.

None here can beat the Allens for tallness, Beeman and Burt in debate, nor Aboussie and the two Adams for charm. Allbritton and Appleby have great ability in public speaking, and Bailey is loveliness personified. Byrom, Anderson, Burch, and Bell have fun enough for all, and Byrnes and Barber furnish the sweetness. Baber is the well-known and well-liked musician.

Bingham hasn't the typical red-headed disposition. Some say Brown and Berry look alike. "Alfred the Great!!" Boone, Brashears, Block are very quiet—at times; while Brandes and Broach have their moments! Our Marie is Irish in every way except that she lacks the red hair of Calloway. Clark's the boy that plays the saxophone in the band! The two Campbells are not so Scotch as sweet. Carter and J. Brown deserve Magnam Laudem—and so does Bullington, if he knows what it is. H. Brown and Kennie make themselves known wherever they are, and do those belles, Eleanor C. and Carpenter? Cash is the studious one, with Bergolofsky, F. Cate, and Bryans running close seconds. And we can't leave Childers out of the studious group—or is he studious?

Culbertson and Cudd are real diplomats, and Crawford and Corona are just as shy as Corder is peppy. Cuykendall and Cummins are studious; while Copeland and Collins have their charms. Our Bill is quite the thing; while Sally and Jennie are ever so clever. What with de Montel's eternal curl-twisting and Dale's jokes and laugh, The Coyote should be good. Dobbs is our beauty. No one can beat J. Davis and Daniel for not working. Cobb and Davie are ever on the go; while B. Davis, Dasbach, Dea and Davidson are sorta' solemn. Oh, the miracles Erwin conceives with her pen. Eckman and M. Ferguson are blasé, while Fine and Eubanks are just as naive. Eastham and D. Ferguson; venerunt, viderunt, vicerunt. Edans and Fisher are good company. On the other side, there is Gray with his wisdom, Gabler with her vitality, M. Gibson who sings, Goldstucker and his piano, and R. Gibson with his quiet eloquence. Gerhardt is said to be a pest (Now! Now!). Fuqua is witty, but independent are Gant, Grantham and Fulfs. Haley is a manager of note. Fooshee, Griffis, and Ford are seldom heard above the din, and Hall and Heginbotham are very different.

BOBBY HILL

Hanks is to be admired in any field, and Harper is at his best in the band. Hearne and Harris know the value of silence, while Senator Joe could make the Sphinx grin. Hancock? He's a problem, while Hayes is as brilliant as his hair. Herron and Hill aren't to be outdone. Hines and Hubbard orate with as much ease as Hoffman paints. Jamison is glamorous; Johnson shines in tennis; while Engle and Howard are valued for integrity. Hodge dances as nicely as Hunt can yell. Hulland and Huff are extra lively, but Hughes and James quietly come and go. And with Jones and E. Johnson, what teacher could ask for more?

B. King has learned what J. King hasn't—that silence is a great art of conversation! Junell's thoughts are sage, but not cynical; while Krebs, Kennett, and Jordan keep their thoughts to themselves. Kaufhold and King ever lend joy, and Cagle is a new and very welcome addition to activities. McAfee might be compared to a pecan, but who cares? We like him. Langford and Long keep us giggling; while Leissler, Ligon, and McGrath never have much to say. Longino is quite a journalist and McCullough and Kolb are truly priceless. Lauderback and Little are teased a lot, but they take it. Krottinger, Knaust, and McCormick are ranked among the sweetest, and Krull and McDonald are very good sports.

McMahon hasn't got a sister in the movies. Melton is as restless as May and Mathis are restful. McKnight, Mabry and Manz are ever dependable, altho Martinez and Martin are just as looked-up-to. There is gay Alice, laughing Menke and Arline with golden hair. Monaghan, Naylor and Nash are the dashing Beau Brummels, but Morgan, Neer, and Myrick are contrasted for reserve. Frances, Eugenia, and Bettie are witty as well as pretty, and Morgan, Michael, and Murchison are dignified, proud, and true.

Even with the loveliness of Flo, Katherine, and Billie, and the winning ways of Bob, Noack, and Payne, such people as Phil, Norris and Osborn cannot be looked down upon. The Porterfields are known 'round about, with rollicking Peevey, studious Pierce, kind Maxine, and dimpled Pickett and Prichard. Jane trips a "light fantastic toe." Prothro and Pyle are as well liked as Perry, Pinkston, Rader and Radford. Polhemus and Pratt know their books; while Priddy and Pfeifer cause wonderment.

Golden Riner, seductive Rathke, and charming I. Roberts, like a Dresden shepherdess, match Richardson in brains, Riley in fun, Reid in being popular, Raub in vigor and Reynolds and C. Roberts in determination. When it comes to looks, Carl R. and Rumbaugh can certainly hold their own against those five "beautimous" brunettes, Jo, Helen, Ardnella, Kathleen and Gee. Rodocker and Frank are ever ready to contribute their bit; while Saye and Senn will give even two-bits if necessary. The friendliness of Bernice, Zilpha, and Laverne speaks for itself, as does the quiet sweetness of Dorothy Lee and Eileen; while it's a well-known fact that Earline and Margaret would be worthy additions to any gathering.

Harry's willingness and Sloan's cheerfulness help to make this world a much better place. The reserved charm of Una Pearle and Steele, and the not-so-reserved charm of Ikard, Jack, and Stayton is indeed a contrast to the studiousness of Stanbrough and the individuality of Sparkman. Our votes for athletic honors go to those good-looking footballers, Stone, Swain, and Stephens. Sue's ready and lasting friendship is a prize to be treasured, and many of us long for the ability of Ruth and Frances. Those brunettes, Tanner, Story, Stonecipher, and Svidlow are combinations of fun and energy. Fred is the possessor of many likable qualities, as are Leo, Melton and Jack. Eula, Vollie, and Harry must have certainly found it true that the person who keeps out of the other fellow's business has more time to devote to his own! "Percy" Stoke can't be matched when it's fun you're looking for.

Intelligence and cleverness run hand in hand with Gwen and Hermione. Marjorie, Mildred, and Mary Wynelle are said to be shy, but they are just as well liked as those who aren't. Everybody's friends are Catherine and Loraine. Care finds no resting place on Clem's shoulders; while Lucille is dependability itself. The ready cheerfulness of Faun, Davis, and Mary Louise is a sure sign of intelligence. Barbara and "Babe" Wilson are truly charm personified. Need we say anything about our Beverly? No more pleasing personalities could be found than those of Charles and Lathaniel. It's true that Harold and H. A. talk little, but perhaps they think much! Freddie and Adena are the personification of the old saying that great gifts come in small packages. Joy is true to her name, and Yancey, Milburn, Walker, Williamson, and Walters bring happiness to our school.

AN IDLE TEXAN

I wandered off all by myself
To a lovely spot I know,
And there I watched a little stream
Bubbling to and fro.

I watched the idly soaring hawk;
I heard the screaming of a jay;
And in this very lazy style,
I passed the hours away.

—Marjorie Collins

TRUTH

Oh, Truth, I salute you.
What is so great as thou,
Standing like a tree on a mountain peak
With straight, unbending bough?

—Carl Yancey

THE SUNSET

Like golden streaks of heaven
Across the sky a-gleaming
The sunset in all its grandeur
Like a beautiful river is streaming.

—Gene Stephens

STARS

Millions and millions of silver spots,
Scattered like dewdrops on silver blue,
So far away, those little spots,
They are a mystery to me and you.

TEXAS

Wonder state of the country,
Battleground of the years,
Won by sturdy, strong men,
Who set aside their fears.

Romantic place of wonder,
Mountains, seas, and strife.
All these things combined in one
Make Texas my home for life.

The Butterfield Express was an ambitious project, 2795 miles from St. Louis to San Francisco, forty per cent longer than any other line in history. The average time was twenty-three and a half days. Texas was traversed 767 miles, an eight-day journey.

John Butterfield of Utica, N. Y., obtained a government contract for four years at $600,000 yearly. He agreed to begin service September 16, 1858, actually starting a month earlier.

One hundred fine ten-passenger Concord coaches, to be drawn by five mules, and about one thousand mules were purchased, two hundred and fifty drivers and about a thousand other employes were hired, a hundred stations of adobe or stone were built, all necessitating an outlay of about a million dollars. Wells were dug to insure an adequate water supply.

The greatest trouble encountered was the stealing of the mules by the Indians, about 225 head being lost in this way in Texas alone during the winter of 1858-9.

The government abandoned the project for the Pony Express due west from St. Louis in 1861, but the trail thus blazed was later used by travellers and immigrants for Texas.

BE MINDFUL

No matter what our place in life,
We oft bemoan our lot
And wish that we were someone else,
Who has what we have not.

But let's be mindful of our Lord
In striving for our goal;
And we'll have happiness in our life
And contentment in our soul.

THOUGHTS AT DAWN

Sleep is the most blessed thing
Of all life's aimless flurries;
It gently wipes my tears away
And smooths away my worries.

I hope tomorrow never comes,
So I can sleep forever.
Mother, please don't wake me now—
Or ever.

—Lavinia Dunn

SUNSET

I love to watch the setting sun,
To hear the song of the meadow lark,
To see the fading colors go
Before it shades the earth with dark.

I love to be on some hill top
And catch the last bright ray
As it disappears from view
Behind a bright blue bay.

When it has vanished from my sight,
I know the day is done;
But when the silent night has passed,
I will see again the sun.

ACTIVITIES

MILITARY TRAILS

The safety of the people of Texas depended upon the protection of their borderland. The Texas Rangers won their fame in doing the work, establishing camps on the north and west of the settlements to restrain the encroaching Mexicans and Indians.

As the settlements extended farther west, more protection was needed. After Texas became a state, the United States government established and manned forts for this purpose. The Rangers and the Federal military forces combined in keeping the border safe for those ever pushing westward on the trails.

NATIONAL HONOR SOCIETY

To be chosen a member of the National Honor Society is one of the highest honors a student can be given in high school. In the late spring an induction ceremony is held in assembly. At this time a maximum of fifteen per cent of the senior class, selected from the upper fourth of the group, and five per cent of the members of the junior class are admitted to the organization. A committee of five teachers and the vice-principal recommends the students, who are then selected by the entire faculty. Each member is judged by his scholastic record, his character, his leadership, and his service.

TEACHERS

Teachers.
Some are big
While others are small;
Some are likable;
Some not at all;
Some can sympathize and understand;
While others don't care or give a lifting hand.
But when you start to graduate,
They will come around and congratulate
You on your manner and your way
And say,
"You ought to make a doctor
Or a president, some day."

That's the reason I never have any.

Now that I'm broke,
I haven't any.
But tomorrow will be another day!

TO AN ARM CHAIR

Did you ever have to sit
In an arm chair
And let your back get stiff
And your neck grow tired
From labor like the toil
Of a man who's hired?
You are constantly replacing
Your books with careful spacing
On the arm of the unbending chair
From your lap where they have slipped
Or the floor where they have clattered;
For on the arm they will not stay,
Unless so tightly gripped
That they cannot choose but lie
On the narrow little arm
Of the arm chair.

CATTLE TRAILS

An important factor in the early development of Texas was the cattle industry, the most picturesque part being the long drives of herds of cattle to market. Of the many routes used, the Western and the Chisholm trails were the best known.

The cowboy with his colorful regalia and splendid horsemanship has fascinated many a person and has found space in many a romantic story of the West.

Women occasionally went with their husbands "up the trail" to market. Mrs. Goodnight, unlike others who went in carriages or wagons, rode horseback on a saddle especially made for her use when she went with her husband, a well-known West Texas cattleman.

COACHING STAFF

Coach Ted L. Jefferies lived up to his reputation of producing winning football teams when, as head coach of the 1936 football team, he guided them to the semifinals in the Texas schoolboy race. Mr. Jefferies is one of the most popular coaches in W. F. H. S. history.

Curtis Beaty was the line coach in football and did much to make the team successful. He also assisted in coaching the basketball team. This year he takes over the track team, Mr. Hall having resigned after a number of successful years.

A. D. Beck made a fine showing in his first year at senior high coaching. He served as football scout and as coach of the B squad. Mr. Beck accomplished an almost impossible task by bringing a green basketball team to the district finals.

Charles Lindsey also served as scout and assistant coach during the football season. It was his work with last year's reserves that brought such good material to this year's team.

J. N. Hall put out a fine track team last year with very little experienced material, placing twenty men in the district finals. He is a faithful worker and well-liked by the boys.

Tom McCarty nearly always produces a winning team in tennis. He is a good player himself and enters into the games with the players, showing them the principles of tennis in practice.

B. P. Henderson spent much of his time with the tennis team last season. He was tournament chairman, excellently carrying out his task.

Miss Lennie Mangum has given the girls' athletics a great boost in W. F. H. S. Under her capable direction strong volley ball teams enter the district tournament.

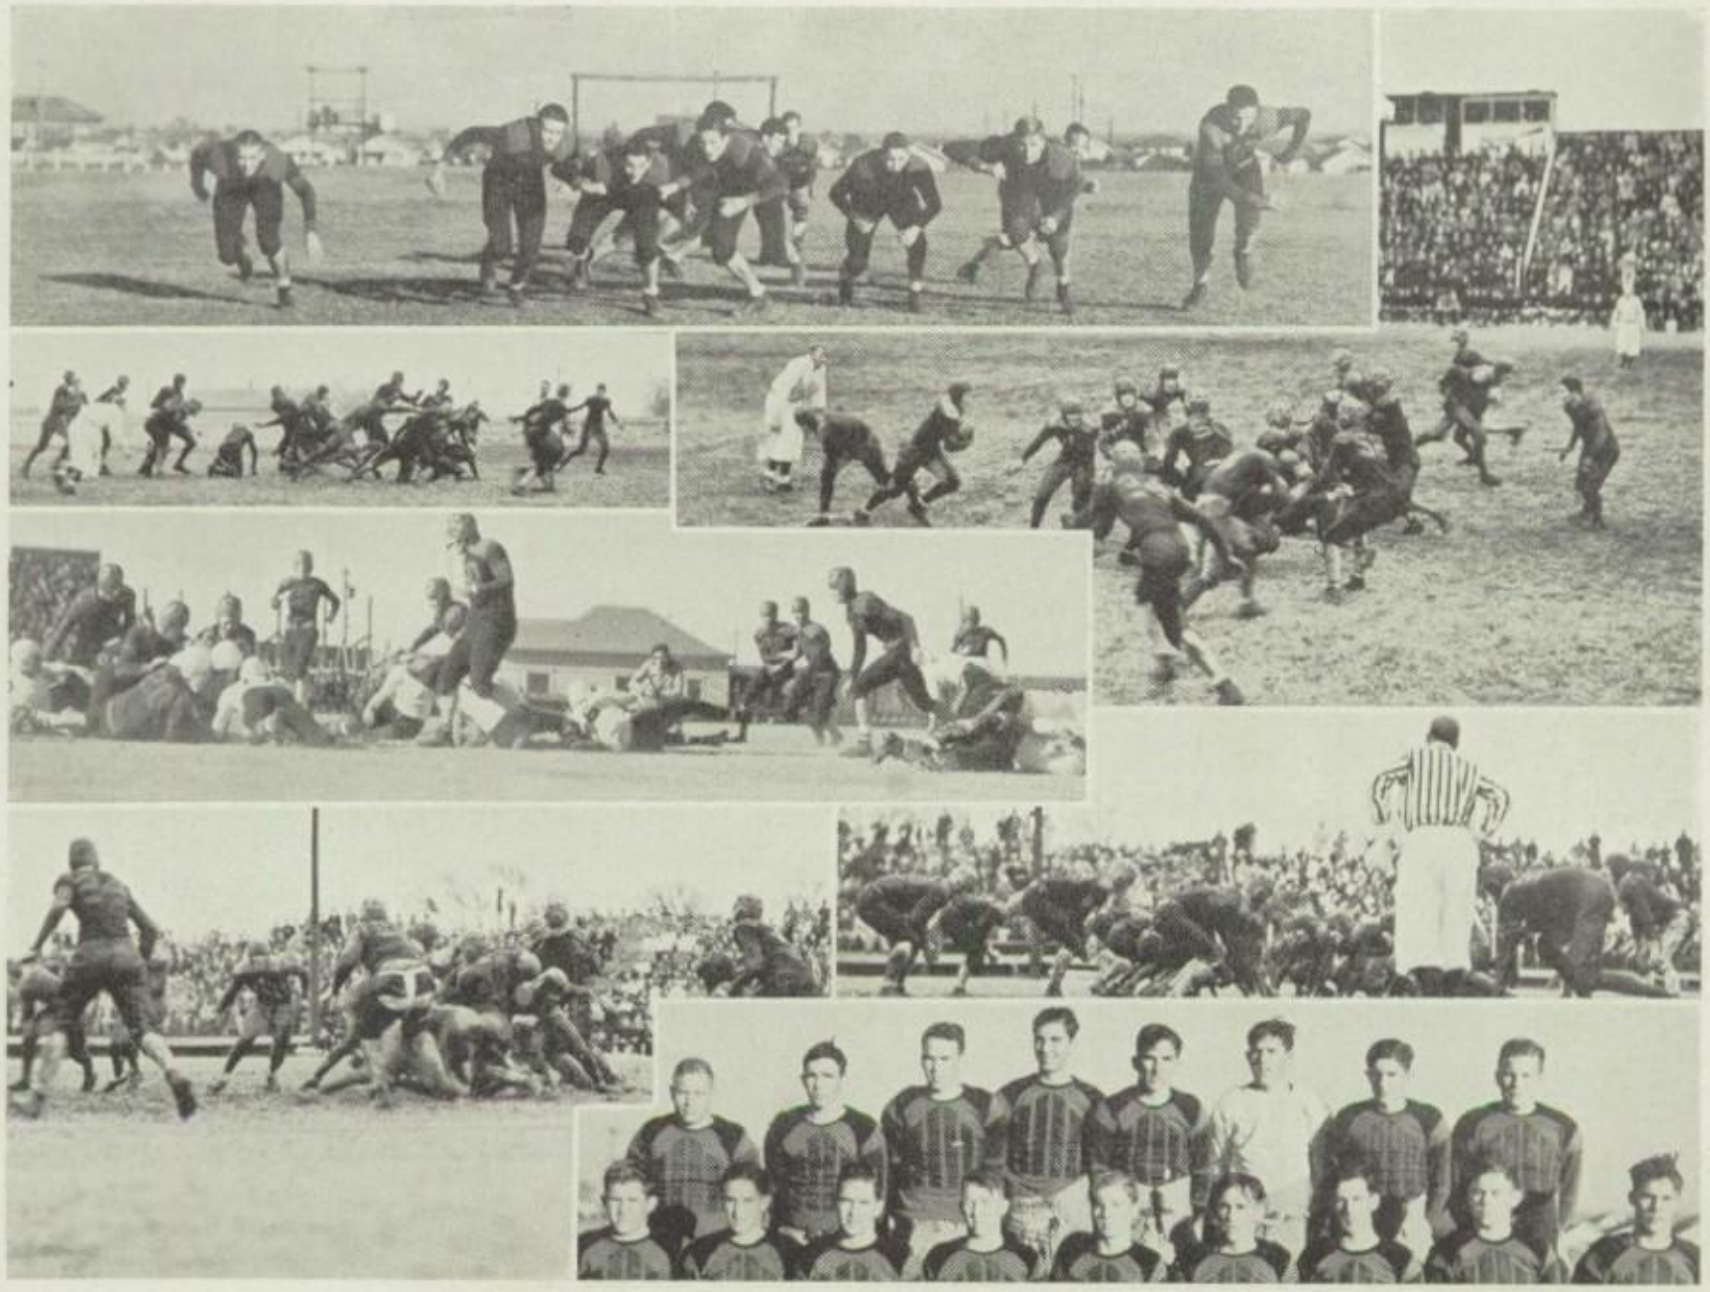
SEASON 1935

The Coyote football squad opened this valiant campaign with a determination to accomplish the unusual. They did this very thing and carried the Red and Black into the semifinals of the Texas schoolboy race, a notable achievement.

After many hard practice sessions in preparation, the Coyotes played through an extremely severe schedule, playing all the district teams, defeating all but one, tying that one. A great crowd of enthusiastic fans witnessed the first game, played against the Masonic Home of Fort Worth. Enthusiasm was at low ebb near the end of the game with the Coyotes trailing with a score of 13 to 0, but the Pack staged a last minute comeback and took the top of the 14 to 13 score. The one point margin was made by Bob Lyon's educated toe, which meant much in other victories. The Pack showed great promise in their initial game, and the fans left the field confident that they were to have the most successful team in years. They were not disappointed.

The next game, the opening conference meet, found the Coyotes at Childress, this time winning the game after a hard-fought battle with the Bobcat eleven. The notable power and speed displayed by the Pack in this game developed the team into one of the greatest football machines in Texas.

The practice sessions for the next two weeks were in preparation for the important game October 2 with the Vernon Lions. During this time the Coyotes engaged in a one-sided game with an Oklahoma team from Temple. With cut-back maneuvers, led by perfect blocking, the Coyotes ran roughshod over the courageous Tigers by a score of 79 to 0. For Whitlow and Neal it was a red-letter evening—their touchdowns were the first in their gridiron careers.



In the Vernon melee that was the second conference game, the Coyotes, fighting to the last, scored a touchdown in the fourth quarter on a blocked punt to break the thirteen to thirteen deadlock that had existed during the raging third period. This touchdown defeated their traditionally bitter enemies 19 to 13 at the Coyote Stadium. Playing before a record crowd of 8,516, the fighting Pack had to overcome a thirteen point lead. A pass from Hill to Lyon for thirty yards and a sixty-two yard touchdown dash by Stephens will always stand high in the memory of Coyote fans.

On their second game away from home, the Pack found themselves defeated for the first time in the 1935 campaign. The strong Greenville team, which reached the finals with Amarillo, led by the all-state quarterback, Bert Marshall, won 27 to 7. It was in this game that Nae Stone gained recognition as one of the outstanding guards in Texas. The Coyotes did not play their best game of the season, but they put up a fight until the final gun.

The following Friday the Pack again journeyed to foreign soil, where they battled the Quanah Indians to a 6 to 6 tie on a cold, wind-swept field. Quanah tallied in the last stages of the first quarter on a consistent, well-managed 61-yard drive. However, the Coyotes came from behind to score in the third quarter on a beautiful triple lateral pass, Hill to Duncan to Stephens. Stone and Corbell were conspicuous in the Coyote forward wall. Neither team was able to break the deadlock; therefore the Pack returned home with only two victories and a tie in the conference warfare.

Then came the clash between the Pack and the vaunted Breckenridge Buckaroos. In this game the Coyotes trounced one of the finest football machines in Texas by a one point margin, 13 to 12. It was the first defeat of the season for the Bucks. The thriller, which kept the crowds emotional throughout, was decided in the last three minutes of play with Breckenridge ahead, 12 to 7. Hill scored with a touchdown through center from six yards out. The entire Coyote line carried away glory, and Ed Neal made his debut as an air ace.

The following week end the Pack traveled to Dallas to take a listless battle from Forest High by 19 to 0. The victory was even easier than the score indicates, as Stephens put on a glowing show and Ed Neal used his power in the backfield.

In the next non-conference game the Coyotes played another Dallas team, Woodrow Wilson High School. The Pack captured another game by a score of 20 to 0. The Wildcats never threatened our goal, but the Pack carried three touchdowns across theirs. Beefy Ed Neal, again starring in the backfield, carried a big share of the Pack's attack. At the same time Childress was upsetting Quanah and clearing the way to the District Championship for the Coyotes.

In the final conference game the Coyotes played their traditionally bitter rivals, the Electra Tigers, in the Thanksgiving Day classic. Electra fought their usual battle, but the inspired Coyotes were not to be defeated. They outclassed the Tigers in all departments. By this victory the Coyotes were undisputed district champions and had completed their schedule with only one loss in the ten games played, the Coyotes scoring 233 points against 71 for their opponents.

The Pack now entered the bidistrict round with Sherman, playing in Fair Park Stadium in Sherman. Neither team found itself on a muddy field, until Captain Whitlow, center, grabbed a fumble from midair and ran seventy yards for a touchdown, giving the Coyotes the victory. Whitlow, all-state center, proved the bulwark of the line and by his sensational play turned apparent defeat into victory, putting Wichita Falls into the quarter-finals.

For the first time since 1923 the Coyotes entered the quarter-finals of the Texas schoolboy race. Fighting qualities kept the Pack from defeat until the Pack's famous double lateral put the ball into scoring position only a few minutes before the final gun. Henry Swain, fast and dependable guard, taking the ball from Stephens, lateraled to Hill for the breath-taking play. Stephens went over for the winning touchdown making the score 19 to 13. The Coyotes were now in the semifinals.

The Pack for the second time in Coyote history entered the semifinals, but were defeated by Amarillo on Butler Field at Amarillo after fighting gamely until the clash ended. Many Coyotes turned in heroic performances that will not be forgotten in this highly successful season. Stephens led the Coyote offense in this game while "Toughy" Whitlow cinched the all-state center's job by figuring in fully fifty per cent of the defensive plays, as usual. The final score was 27 to 12, but the contest was much closer than the score indicates. So ended the most successful season in Coyote history.

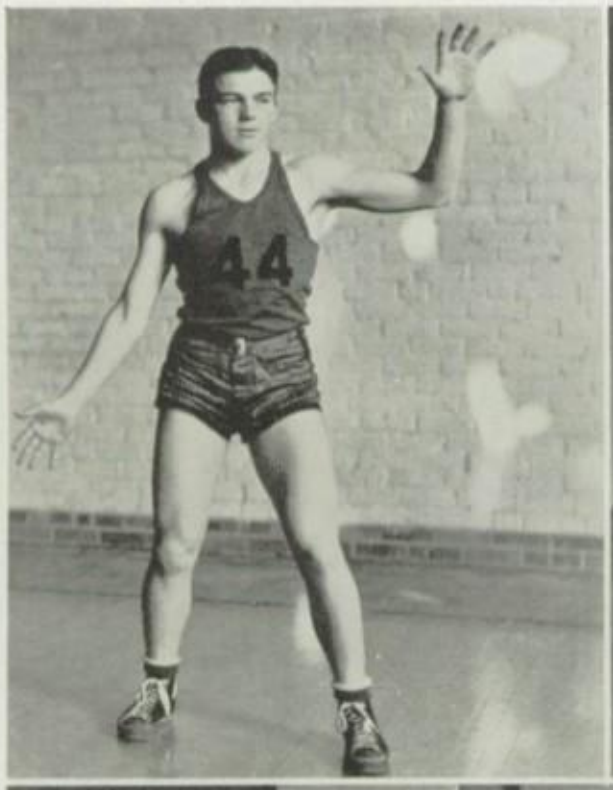
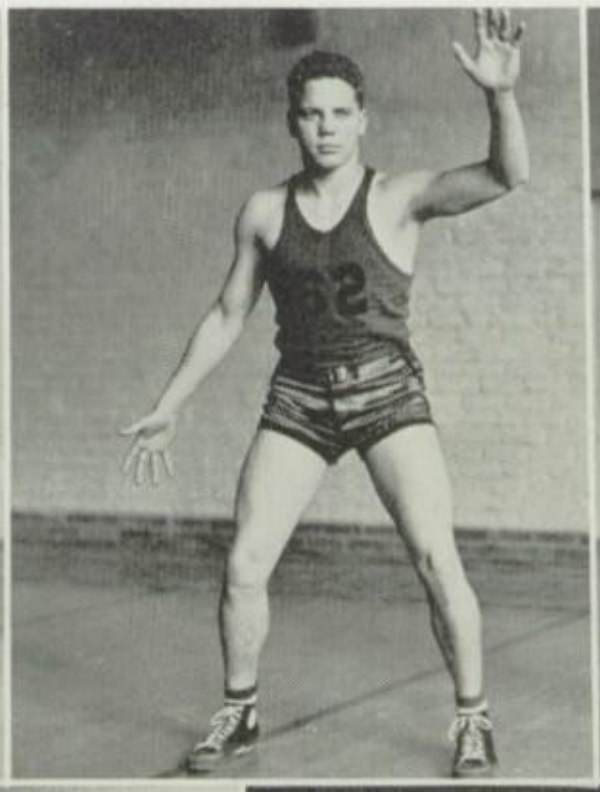
MONAGHAN SWAIN JOHNSON





Cecil Monaghan

Cecil, a consistent Coyote guard, proved his ability in all phases of the game. His accurate passing and speed gave his opponents plenty to worry about.

Henry Swain

Henry, captain of the team, could always be depended upon for cool, calm work. His outstanding defensive work proved a great help to the Coyote team.

Euel Johnson

Euel, Coyote center and the only six-footer, was a valuable Coyote player, hitting his best form in the latter part of the season. His work in taking the ball from the back board was excellent.

Bill Nash

Bill, a flashy little forward, will always be remembered for his splendid game with Harrold in the semifinals of the district tournament, totaling fourteen points himself.

Charles Jantz

Charles, Coyote reserve, was unable to break into the regular line-up, but his ability will be given plenty of room to develop next season.

Carl Rogers

Carl, left forward of the Coyote five, hit his highest mark in the Electra game, totaling twenty-four points, but he was unable to account for many in the district tournament.

1936 SEASON

Coach A. D. Beck began his first campaign with only one letter man, Henry Swain. The entire squad was divided into three divisions, A, B, and C squads. The A squad was composed of all seniors and a few promising juniors. The remainder of the juniors composed the B squad, while the C squad was made up of sophomores. After improvement had been shown by some players, they were advanced to a higher squad.

The entire record of the season stood at the .500 mark. As a whole the campaign was very successful, considering the inexperience of the players, which was balanced by fight and enthusiasm.

The 1937 squad will be made up of members of the '36 B's, and much is expected of them. No letter men will return, but all the players have received experience in some twenty games. The C squad also had a regular schedule throughout the season.

The greatest surprise of the 1936 campaign was the Coyotes' victory over the Harrold Hornets. The Hornets were one of the pre-tournament favorites and defeated Vernon in the first round. The Coyotes entered the finals, but were defeated by Nocona. The A squad finished their season with this game.

B and C squads continued practice under the direction of Coach Beck. Five of the A squad were awarded sweaters and the members of the other two squads will receive letters.

1935 TRACK

Wichita Falls sent a comparatively inexperienced track team into the district meet, but despite the inexperience, twenty of Coach Hall's Red and Black charges placed in the finals.

The Coyotes placed one first and tied for a first in the district tournament. Alfred Cohen took first in the 880-yard run, and E. W. Maxwell tied first in the pole vault. J. L. Creecy took seconds in both the high hurdles and the high jump, and Gerald Beard placed second in the low hurdles. Gene Hollis placed third in the mile run, and Charles Avery and Clyde Henderson placed fourth in the broad jump and mile run respectively.

In the regional meet Creecy and Beard met tough opposition and were out in the preliminaries. Cohen also took part in the regional meet but was disqualified in the preliminaries.

Cohen and Beard were co-captains of the 1935 track team. Those receiving sweaters were: Alfred Cohen, J. L. Creecy, Gerald Beard, and Manager Edwin Heath.

Coach J. N. Hall did a great work in placing twenty men in the finals in the district meet, and his efforts for a winning district team are not unappreciated. He has resigned as head coach but will remain an interested assistant. For many years he has put out excellent teams for the Red and Black.

1935 TENNIS

It was the girls who kept Wichita Falls district titles this year.

Bonnie Gabler defeated Mary Helen Perkins of Petrolia, defending champion, in straight sets, 7-5, 6-2. Miss Gabler's powerful service strokes were the dominating factor in her victories to become the singles champion.

Jayne Johnson and Virginia Skinner won the girls' doubles championship by defeating Stoneberg in straight sets 7-5, 6-2. Miss Johnson's serve and Miss Skinner's volleying played important parts in their victories.

Both the boys' singles and doubles titles were taken from Wichita this year. Childers of Valley View polished off the Coyote boys' singles representative, Jack Scott, in the three-out-of-five final struggle 6-2, 7-5, 6-3.

Joe Corbin and Harry Thornberry composed the doubles team. The coaches thought this combination would surely win the championship, but tough opposition was met in Geraldine after the boys had advanced to the semifinals.

Miss Gabler was not able to make the trip to Denton, but her substitute and the girls' doubles lost in the first round in regional.

It was through the untiring efforts of coaches Tom McCarty and B. P. Henderson that the tennis teams were able to make such a fine showing.

The Squad: Sitting—Morrison, Hill, Arbuckle (Captain), Hill, Kennett, Briley.
Standing—Miller, Malone, Stonecipher, Gabler, Johnson, Moore, Medford.

1936 VOLLEY BALL

The Coyotesses were handicapped by a late start, due to the fact that most of them were members of the pep squad and were cheering the football boys in the semifinals of the state race. Consequently, about three weeks of very valuable practice were lost. However, much experience was gained in the many practice games and next year's team has great future prospects.

In the first round of the district tournament the Coyotesses lost to Mankins. For the last four consecutive years the girls have been defeated by Mankins in the district tournament. The score was 3-15, 15-7, and 15-11.

As a whole the team has many outstanding players. Bonnie Gabler's strong serve accounted for twelve points in the first game. Modena Stonecipher kept the opponents on their toes with her cross-court plays. Jayne Johnson was always ready with a smashing drive. Patra Moore gave her opponents much worry on slipping the ball over the net. Captain Maxine Arbuckle was constantly returning fine spikes. Ruby Kennett was outstanding in setting the ball up to her teammates. Elsie Barbara Miller, although a reserve, played fine ball.

Coach Lennie Mangum and assistant coach Inez Griffin are to be complimented on getting such an inexperienced team in such fine shape for the district tournament.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

As the annual girls' track meet to decide the best all around girl athlete was not held this year, the winners were decided on by their outstanding achievements in athletics. Bonnie Gabler was awarded the trophy plaque for the best all around athlete. Virginia Skinner and Gladys Brandeberry were awarded silver bracelets with engraved volley balls on them in recognition of their athletic ability.

Miss Gabler was given the award in recognition of her participation in tennis, volley ball, and other sports. She was outstanding in tennis, being the district winner in girls' singles.

Miss Skinner was likewise a district tennis winner, being a member of the doubles team that won that title. She also was a member of the volley ball team and participated in other sports.

Miss Brandeberry was outstanding in volley ball and field events. She organized a baseball team in her gym class and had games with other classes.

Individual selection of sports is encouraged in the gym classes. Nearly any sport that is desired is at the disposal of the girls. Through the efforts of Miss Mangum new activities are constantly being added. This year badminton, a game similar to tennis, was introduced in the gymnasium classes.

A TEXAS COWBOY

Under a silver Texas moon
A lonely cowboy lay;
He listened to the coyote's cry
Until the sky was gray.

He ate his breakfast by the fire
At the dawn of another day,
Then packed his well-filled saddle bags
And slowly rode away.

—Mauriene McNeill

MEMORY

The creak of saddle leather,
The smell of it in the rain,
The silhouette of a horse and rider
Against a sunset plain
Make my heart go wildly beating
And my pulses fastly race,
Bringing back old memories
Of an almost forgotten face.

—Mary Love Appleby

ROUND-UP

The cattle were tired and restless,
The moon was shining high,
The cowboys all were shelterless,
For round-up time was nigh.

—Jim Moore

THE FAITHFUL COWBOY

Over the hill, prairie, and plain
The cowboy with chaps, boots, and lariat rides.
He follows the cows and the calves
And finds where the coyote hides.
He is faithful to his herd
In heat and snow and rain.

HUMOR

CAMEL TREK

On March 3, 1855, the Congress of the United States passed a bill appropriating $30,000 for the "purchase and importation of dromedaries, to be employed for military purposes" at the suggestion of Jefferson Davis, Secretary of War. As early as 1836 camels had been suggested for this use, but it was Davis who, in 1853, asked Congress to get them "for military purposes, for express, and for reconnaissances" on the western frontier.

Two ship loads of about seventy-five dromedaries were brought from Egypt, the first reaching Indianola, Texas, in May, 1856. They were first taken to San Pedro, two miles above San Antonio, soon to Medina, finally making their headquarters at Camp Verde. The second ship arrived in February, 1857.

Tests of their usefulness were made. Some were taken to California. Some were taken to the Big Bend Country for exploration of that little known region. Some were used in pack trains for military supplies, and others with troops on the march. Bvt. Col. Robert E. Lee, Commander of the Department of Texas, reported in 1860 that they had performed "reliable services." The Civil War disturbed the project, and they were sold at auction in March, 1866.

Several other loads were brought over by private enterprise. The camels were used in circuses, in freight caravans, in celebration parades, in amusement parks, and tradition says in the mail service. Many stories survive of the escaped camels and of the drivers who were brought over from Egypt, forming a romantic part of the legendary history of Southwestern trails.

ACT III: In the Kitchen
POSTSCRIPT: In the Kitchen (Such variety!)

ACT I

Little Nell: (This waitress doesn't belong in here, but we have to put her somewhere.) (Ed. Note: Why not leave her out?) Zoup! Zoup! The waiter wants to know if you'll have zoup?

Dan McGrew: I don't know what you're talking about.

Little Nell: Well, you know what hash is—well, zoup is looser.

Sponsor: Mention Texas in your play.

Author: Gimme time, plez.

Parson Priddy (In the kitchen): Deacon Smith, will you lead us in praise?

Deacon Smith (Awakening): Lead yourself. I just dealt.

Medical professor (Explaining diseases): Take diphferia, . . .

Russell and Peevy: You take it. We've had it.

ACT II

(This kitchen is so upset that the cook thinks a logyrythm is the song of the lumberman, and the iceman thinks ingenuity is a person studying to be an engineer.)

We ran out of ink and conversation. No scenes, again.

ACT III

(The climax! I can't wait to see who gets the girl.)

(Editor: What girl?)

Bill Duncan: When the roll is called up yonder, what will we dunk in our coffee?

(Note: The above was a strange interlude.)

John Dale: I have a sister in Chicago and she's delighted.

Third Stooge: What? Delighted to be living in Chicago?

John Dale: No, delighted to be living. Heh, heh.

(If that didn't finish you, we'll call it quitz.)

(Sponsor: But you still didn't get Texas Trails in, and that's the theme.)

(Author: I'll fix that.)

THESE THINGS ACTUALLY HAPPENED

Bonnie Gabler sat through one whole class period without saying a single word. She said them by the dozens.

An issue of the Wichitan came out without mentioning the names of any members of the journalism class.

"Macbeth" and "Hamlet" so entranced Ikard Smith that he bought a copy of all Shakespeare's plays.

A whole day passed without a wisecrack from Bobby Parker.

Mr. Rider forgot himself in assembly and said "Scram" instead of "Good morning!"

Thomas Felder Richardson, Junior, knew his lesson one day! The teacher fainted. (I. C. P. is the teacher.)

One day Beeman failed to have a comeback to some wisecrack. Imagine!

At 3:20 on a never-to-be-forgotten day, it was apparent that Wallace Masters's hair had had contact with a comb at some time during the day.

A member of the Coyote staff actually pleased Miss Kelly.

John Herbert Gray, now aged fifteen, was once so struck by stage fright that he forgot his entire speech.

WHAT THE VILLAGE YOKELS LEARNED AT SCHOOL

Characters: SENIOR, JUNIOR, SOPHOMORE, DITTO

SCENE I

Place: First Floor of WFSHS
Time: 8:36

Sophomore (Slides into building, glances at clock, stops suddenly, and starts shivering): Oh, dear! Oh, dear! I'm late. What shall I do?

Ditto: (Who has just entered): Gwan to the office! Miss Gould will give you seventh period, or else Mr. Rider will expel you. What are you afraid of, you big thithy?

Junior (Trots into building, looks at clock to confirm his belief that he is late): Late again! I guess I'll get seventh period for a week this time.

Ditto: I'll say you will! Miss Gould said that you had been tardy ten times this year when she saw you last week. But go on, you can take it.

Senior (Strolls in and peers at his watch): I seem to be late. Let me think. What shall I say this time? Last week it was a flat tire, and week . . .

Ditto (Chants): And week before last your watch was slow, and the week before that . . .

Senior (With dignity): Nevermind. Nevermind. The thing that matters is that the family timepiece was slow this morning.

SCENE II

Place: Second floor of WFSHS
Time: Just any time

Sophomore (Pauses in front of statue of Lincoln): Who's that of?

Junior: I'm not sure, but I think it's Venus. Someone told me that there's a statue of Venus in the building.

Ditto: Ask that fellow leaning against the wall over there. He's a senior, so he'll probably know.

Senior (Turns and peers majestically through his spectacles): Of whom is that statue? Why, my dear fellow, that's Napoleon.

SCENE III

Place: Anywhere in WFSHS
Time: 3:20 to 3:24
Atmosphere: Noisy

Senior: Gangway, buddy! Oh, pardon me—well, why don't you keep your feet out of the way? Say, you, what do you mean by trampling on my Sunday shine?

Sophomore (Shoves himself against the wall and stares): Pardon me. Oh, yes, sir! I didn't mean to get in your way. Oh, I beg your pardon!

Ditto: Can you tell me in which room some people are waiting for me? (Aside) Seventh period! Ha! Ha!

Junior (Strolling through the hall, singing cheerfully): "Oh, give me a home where the buffalo roam—"
